⇒ MOAA Legislative Report: Dennis Benchoff

National MOAA continues to urge all MOAA members to contact their elected officials, representatives and senators, to push for the elimination of the Budget Control Act, commonly known as the sequestration legislation. Its provisions are beginning to have a very negative impact on our national defense at a time when a strong armed forces is paramount and a deterrent to aggressive action by adventuresome nations and terrorist groups. Chapter members who are also National MOAA members should have received some preprinted post cards along on this topic with the latest issue of the Military Officer magazine. If you haven't sent these on to Washington, DC yet, you should do so as soon as possible.

National MOAA is also concerned about the reduced availability of burial space at Arlington National Cemetery for eligible veterans, the adequate funding of the Veterans Administration, the impact of the hiring freeze on critical defense department positions, and the need for possible more military base closings under the provisions of the BRAC legislation. More on these topics as the congress gets back to work after its two-week Easter recess and tries to decide what to do.

◇ ROTC activities: Dina Cerase

The selection board to select a cadet for our ROTC Scholarship Award was held on 27 February 2017. The board consisted of Dennis Benchoff, presiding; and John Gareis and Tony Cerase. It also included LTC Joseph Wyszynski from the Blue Mountain Battalion. The selected cadet was Maria Glotfelter and the Millersville cadre selected CDT Zachary Miller for the Leadership Medal. They received their awards on 20 April 2017 at the Millersville Ford Atrium from Dennis Benchoff and Tony Cerase.

The next major event is the Commissioning of four graduating cadets on 12 May 2017, 1300 hrs. This will be the last year that our chapter will present the 'Gold Bar'. As stated in the January newsletter along with the budget, MOAA has terminated the Gold Bar Program; hence, our chapter will continue to provide the scholarship and the Leadership Medal at our expense. You are invited to attend the ceremony at the Millersville Ford Atrium; the parking for this building is the same as the parking for the Gordinier building.

◇ With Deepest Sympathy We Honor the Memory of:

++ March 3, 2017: Jean M. Spangler, wife of the late CDR Richard Spangler, they were members of our family since March 1993. Jean was a Register Nurse and practice in the Lancaster Area.

++ March 26, 2017: Herbert Beeders, he was a dentist and former US Army Captain. He was buried on March 28th. Herb joined our chapter in 2009.

++ April 2, 2017: Robert D. Wilcox, age 95, husband to Cammie Lois Abel Wilcox, his wife of 67 years. He was a member of this chapter since 1988 and through the years served in many capacities on the board. Many of our members attended his memorial service at Willow Valley. Graciously, Bob had requested that any memorial donations be made to our scholarship fund.

Dr. J.J. Bentman, DDS, provided us with his eulogy to Bob and it is printed below.

I am late comer into Bob's world.

I wish I knew him earlier. He was an uncut diamond in the rough. The longer I knew him, the longer his facets would appear.

Each facet sparkled differently and the few who choose to view him from a different facet and could not see his luster. Alongside them he could be an impediment to their views.

Few in number, they could not match his stature in MOAA.

He was generous, insightful, bereft of scorn of others, even if they were not of the same cloth.

After answering a MOAA newspaper ad, I called one day, and a warm welcoming voice replied and encouraging me to join MOAA.

It was the same voice I would heard at my first MOAA dinner. I would soon learn that it belonged to Bob Wilcox.

What impressed me most at that dinner was his introductions. He took the time he to introduce all the new applicants with a sincerity and thoughtfulness. He shorted no one.

That introduction carried a sensitivity one seldom hears at large group-ing's introductions. These were followed by his humorous opening re-marks that would precede these subsequent introductions.

He called them his hook; the enticement to get the group's attention that he learned in journalism school. I was impressed. We were all im-pressed and were all hooked.

His stories had a cadence of a professional master of ceremony. He would develop, with descriptive zeal, it was a portrayal of the scenery that would enveloped his characters; full of appropriate adjectives and adverbs that made his story individually imbedded in everyone's mind so that when his story neared the end, the punch line had its humorous Wil-cox zing. We all appreciated those pre-dinner bouts of humor.

His diamond facet I chose to watch sparkled, with an inner insight that was not appreciated by the board we sat on, however they could not take away his fervor for MOAA's success. He was the cause for our winning our chapter's award as the most successful chapter among the other similar chapters in MOAA.

He was the heart and soul of this chapter and his labors that made it so. It was a labor of love.

As the years trudged on we could see the effects of his absence.

Let his memory linger as our goal.

◇ Community Services

"The Mission Continues" is an organization helping veterans focus their talents and energy at home. They challenge the national conversation about veterans at the same time they build a stronger community. They have two action-oriented programs: the Service Platoon and the Fellowship Program. The Service Platoon mission is to engage all generations of active, guard and reserve members to work with non-profits to address specific challenges in the community. In the Fellowship Program veterans use their skills to volunteer for causes they care about. For example; volunteering with Habitat for Humanity, Boys and Girls Club, Equest Therapeutic Horsemanship, Humane Society, etc. By volunteering they contribute millions of dollars worth of services to the organization and veterans in need. The volunteers get real-world experience that can help them achieve full-time employment or enroll in higher education. To learn more about this program go to: www.missioncontinues.org. This can be an activity for you or someone you know who needs community engagement.
